

One of our fundamental freedoms is the First Amendment's Free Speech. This right is systematically being eroded by the few who are able to control the press and the communications industry. We can not be a strong nation of informed people if the information we receive is funneled to us by an elite few with one point of view. We need to be able to know that all diverse viewpoints and all information has an avenue for expression. This can not be done if only a few control the means by which expression and information is given and received. Monopolies are bad for Americans and the nation if we are to survive and remain a strong, honest and major nation in the world. This Act must not become a part of the american fabric of rich, diverse and divergent viewpoints.
